INTRO

This is kinda like the strumming what you should be doing throughout the intro and the verses... it varies a little but this is the basic idea...

Em                C                Em                          Fsus2
  Solid walls will crack tonight, solid walls are gonna fall down
Em                      C                           Em
  And this is not any golden age we lost, any golden age we lost
                Fsus2    G
  We broke it here
Fsus2                                    C
  I'm packing for I'm packing for the crash
Fsus2                                    C
  I'm packing for I'm packing for the crash
Em                              C
  Another day and another scar will fade
       Em                                 Fsus2    G
  But another scar will take this ones place
Fsus2                                    C
  I'm packing for I'm packing for the crash
  Fsus2                  C
  Sudden pressure we fall through the floor
       Fsus2             C                                  Fsus2       G
  And kill this moment before it gets born and I'm not here now
Fsus2                                    C
  I'm packing for I'm packing for the crash
Fsus2                  C
  Sudden pressure we fall through the floor
     Fsus2                    C
  And kill this moment before it takes hold
```

And then a bit of wailing over the Fsus2/C stuff before ending on... C.
